

Davinder Dhaliwal LLB (Hons),

Deputy District Judge (Civil) Call 1990

Davinder has a successful practice covering all areas of immigration, asylum, and human rights cases. She regularly appears before the Asylum and Immigration Tribunal and the Court of Appeal.

She has considerable experience in both private and public law family matters. She is regularly instructed in all aspects of care and adoption proceedings, ancillary relief, matrimonial finance, inheritance disputes, property disputes, residence and contact cases. She has a particular interest in cases where family law overlaps with human rights and has been involved in proceedings under the Hague Convention and in Judicial Review.

Davinder is a Board Member to the voluntary sector organisations assisting women and children experiencing domestic violence. She provides lectures and training seminars to lawyers and community groups on domestic violence, childcare law, forced marriages and human rights.
